National Maritime Day, first celebrated on April 5, 1964, marks India's entry into international shipping with the historic 1919 voyage of SS Loyalty—the first Indian-owned ship operated by The Scindia Steam Navigation Company Ltd. This bold journey from Mumbai to London challenged British dominance in maritime trade.

The day honors the invaluable contributions of India's seafarers, shipbuilders, and port authorities to the nation's maritime progress.

jnpaport JNPA recently hosted an insightful 5-day training program exclusively for the women officials from Maldives Ports Limited. To make learning even more fun, we threw in a quick "Guess the Port Stuff" riddle challenge!

At JNPA, it is always more than just training – it is about connection, collaboration, and growing together. Here's a glimpse of the camaraderie in action!
